B0-1	"Landgrenze" between Germany (Fed Republic) and Czechoslovakia. Looking east from a spot two miles east of Phillipsreuth, across the Czech border. The farms across the border have been abandoned and the buildings are just shells. Note Communist watchtower atop building in left background. Shack in foreground was former (German (Fed Republic) border patrol house, now unused. Phillipsreuth is a small village located at approximately 48 degrees 30 minutes latitude by 13 degrees 75 minutes longitude. The picture was taken in January 1954.
B0-2	Same as B0-1 but taken from a different angle. very returned to lab for print shape all
B0-3	Looking east across the Czech border from a spot about one quarter mile east of Phillipsreuth. There is a barbed wire barrier about half way up the hill in the background that is not visible against the brown grass. All farmhouses in the picture have been abandoned and land is not farmed. Picture taken in January 1954.
B0-4	Looking toward the village of Haidt in the East Zone of Germany from across the iron curtain. The fence in the picture is the border line. Building on the right is not now occupied. Note plowed strip and the bricked up windows. Picture taken in January 1954. Haidt is a small village about three kilometers north of Hof, Germany (Fed Republic).
